Ancient Ruins

The Peloponnese is home to some of the most important ancient ruins in Greece. The ancient city of Mycenae, with its massive cyclopean walls and Lion Gate, is a must-see for any history buff. Other notable ancient sites include the ruins of Olympia, the site of the ancient Olympic Games; the Temple of Zeus at Nemea; and the fortress of Acrocorinth.

Medieval Castles

The Peloponnese is also home to a number of medieval castles. The most famous of these is the Castle of Monemvasia, a fortified town built on a rocky islet off the coast of Laconia. Other notable castles include the Castle of Methoni, the Castle of Koroni, and the Castle of Pylos.

Venetian Towns

The Peloponnese was ruled by the Venetians from the 13th to the 15th centuries. During this time, the Venetians built a number of fortified towns along the coast. The most famous of these is the town of Nafplio, with its picturesque harbor and Venetian fortress. Other notable Venetian towns include the towns of Modon, Corfu, and Zakyntos.

Rolling Hills

The Peloponnese is known for its beautiful rolling hills. These hills are covered in vineyards, olive groves, and forests. The region is also home to a number of mountains, including Mount Taygetus, Mount Parnon, and Mount Erymanthos.
