Stretch Sarah Eliza Ankum is a true embodiment of resilience and success. As a survivor of domestic violence, she has gone on to become an anti-violence advocate, author, and global speaker, inspiring countless lives with her story. Through her work, she has raised awareness about the issue of domestic violence, provided support to survivors, and empowered women around the world to break free from the cycle of abuse.

Early Life and Surviving Domestic Violence

Sarah was born in Ghana, West Africa, and moved to the United States at a young age. She grew up in a loving and supportive home, but her life took a drastic turn when she entered into an abusive relationship. For years, she endured physical, emotional, and psychological abuse at the hands of her partner.

"I was living in a constant state of fear and isolation," Sarah recalls. "I felt like I was trapped, and there was no way out."

Despite the overwhelming challenges she faced, Sarah refused to give up hope. She knew that she deserved a better life, and she was determined to find a way to escape the abuse. With the help of a domestic violence hotline, she finally found the courage to leave her abuser.

Becoming an Anti-Violence Advocate

After leaving her abuser, Sarah dedicated her life to helping other survivors of domestic violence. She became an anti-violence advocate, working tirelessly to raise awareness about the issue and to provide support to victims.

"I wanted to share my story with the world," Sarah says. "I wanted to show survivors that they are not alone, and that there is hope for a better future."

Sarah has spoken out about her experiences at countless events, including the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women and the White House. She has also written a book, "Unbreakable: My Story of Surviving Domestic Violence and Finding Hope," which has inspired countless readers.

Global Impact and Recognition

Sarah's work has had a profound impact on the lives of countless people around the world. She has been recognized for her advocacy efforts, receiving numerous awards and accolades, including the prestigious Global Citizen Changemaker Award.

"I am so grateful for the opportunity to use my voice to make a difference in the lives of others," Sarah says. "Every time I hear from a survivor who has been helped by my work, it fills me with a sense of purpose and fulfillment."

Stretch Sarah Eliza Ankum is a true inspiration to us all. Her journey from survivor to advocate is a testament to the power of resilience and the importance of speaking out against injustice.

Through her powerful story, she has not only raised awareness about domestic violence but has also given hope to countless survivors. She is a beacon of light in the fight against violence against women, and her work will continue to make a positive impact on the world for years to come.

If you or someone you know is experiencing domestic violence, please know that there is help available. Call the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-SAFE (7233) or visit their website at www.thehotline.org.
