One sunny morn, as they strolled along,
They heard a tiny meow, a plaintive song.
In a cardboard box, a sight to behold,
A tiny kitten, a story to be told.

Its fur was soft, like velvet's embrace,
Its eyes sparkled, a mischievous chase.
Billy's heart melted, a love so pure,
He knew right away, this kitty was his cure.

With gentle hands, they carried it home,
A new adventure, a bond that would roam.
They named it Mittens, a fitting name,
For its tiny paws, a playful game.

Days turned into weeks, weeks into years,
Mittens brought laughter, chased away fears.
Through cuddles and purrs, a love so deep,
A bond unbreakable, a treasure to keep.

Billy and his family, a perfect match,
With Mittens by their side, their lives a catch.
They learned the joys of pet ownership true,
Responsibility and love, a bond they'd pursue.

So if you're looking for a friend so dear,
Consider adopting a cat, make your home clear.
In shelters and rescues, many await,
A chance to be loved, to seal their fate.

With open hearts and arms so wide,
Adopt a cat, let love abide.

A lifetime of joy, a bond that will never end.
